RECAP FROM THE IAFE 2025 CONFERENCE

Twenty-one fair members from Maine traveled to Denver, Colorado, to attend the IAFE Convention and Trade Show. Fairs represented included Blue Hill, Cumberland, Fryeburg, Harmony Free Fair, Litchfield, Skowhegan, Springfield, Union, Waterford World's Fair and Windsor. Blue Hill and Litchfield Fairs were recognized as winning their categories of small fairs, and Barry W. Norris was recognized by the IAFE as the State and Provincial Executive of the Year.

Highlights of the convention included a private screening of the "World Without Cows Documentary" brought by filmmakers Michelle Michael and Brandon Whitworth, a tour of the National Western Complex (Home of the National Western Stock Show), visiting with Johnnie Bubar (a longtime favorite entertainer at Maine fairs), and reconnecting with www.fairs.com - a vendor that offers an all-in-one platform that includes digital ticketing, professional websites and proven social media marketing.

Reflections on the convention experience include:

"It was great to have such a large contingent from Maine. It made an impression on the IAFE and other fairs and organizations throughout the world."

"Wonder how many other states had 40% of their member fairs there!"

"My first IAFE convention was an amazing experience. The sessions were informative, insightful and gave me so many more ideas! The overwhelming feeling was one of positivity, encouragement and collaboration. Where else can you find CEOs of giant organizations with ten day fairs chatting with volunteers from tiny 1 to 3 day fairs?..."

"I have been to several and I think that this one was very informative."

"I got to meet people from four different countries, listen to amazing guest speakers, learn some eye opening things to help grow even the smallest fairs."

"The IAFE convention provides a unique opportunity for me to interact with fairs of every size, complexity and culture. The session settings enabled comfortable conversations about shared challenges as well as success stories..."

"Regardless of the size of your fair, it would be hard to overstate the value of this conference given the networking opportunities and session options."

"At the IAFE convention in Denver, I had the opportunity to gain valuable insights into several key areas of the fair industry, including innovations in food and beverage, insurance considerations and best practices for managing crisis situations. The keynote speakers inspired the audience to think outside the box and challenge ourselves to find ways to not only uphold the heritage and history of Fairs as we see it today but to build new traditions for the next generation to uphold..."

"Regardless of the size of your fair, it would be hard to overstate the value of this conference given the networking opportunities and session options."

Please make a moment at the MAAF conference to read many of the passages in their entirety.

NOTE - Four Maine fair members attended through the generosity of the MAAF Foundation grants, as well as one individual receiving an additional grant from the IAFE. There are several other national grants written to enable people to attend other national conventions/conferences. More information will be available at the MAAF conference in January.
